LEVESON INQUIRY INTO THE CULTURE, PRACTICE AND ETHICS OF THE PRESS

EXHIBIT DC1

This is the exhibit marked "DC1" referred to in the witness statement of David Cameron dated 4 May 2012.

Meetings with media figures as Prime Minister

1. The list of meetings I have had since becoming Prime Minister has been compiled from electronic and manual searches of the diary that set out each day's meetings and engagements.
2. It is worth noting that this diary covers almost two years and around 15,000 different entries. Whilst every care has been taken in compiling the list of meetings below, given this volume of information it is possible that it may still contain inaccuracies.

Notes on the list

3. My office has attempted to produce as comprehensive list as possible of every interview I have had with media organisations as Prime Minister and any other meeting or contact I had with proprietors and senior executive and editorial staff, including political editors, along with the general nature or purpose of each meeting. It therefore goes further than the list of meetings currently published by Government Departments which cover ministerial meetings with newspaper and other media proprietors, editors and senior executives.
4. However, the following factors will prevent this list from being fully comprehensive:
  - it was primarily a diary for my professional commitments and therefore it would not necessarily have listed every social occasion where I would have met figures in the media nor when I met friends who are media figures;
  - where it does include social commitments, I have included the event if my diary records it as being hosted by a media figure, or where I believe there would have a number of media figures present;

- in respect of my personal free time, while I do not have a detailed record of how I spent this time, where I met individuals at Chequers or in Downing Street my official diary does provide some record of whom I have met and I have included this information.
5. The Inquiry's definition of which types of media figures were required for disclosure (media proprietors, senior editorial and executive staff, and political editors) provided for some ambiguity over which journalists should be included. For example, it raised the question of whether meetings I had with deputy editors, section editors, and political editors of regional newspapers should be included. In the interest of as full a disclosure of meetings as possible, I therefore decided to include (alongside proprietors, editors and political editors): associate editors; deputy editors; section editors; regional political editors; and senior broadcasters (for example, news anchors), as well as interviews.
6. There is a small number of journalists who are close friends of mine and who I see so frequently that I have not included them systematically in these lists, namely Daniel Finkelstein, Alice Thomson and Sarah Vine from The Times, Xan Smiley and Christopher Lockwood from The Economist, and Robert Hardman from The Daily Mail. While my contacts are mainly social, they are also people with whom I discuss politics and particular projects, such as speeches.
